

Date: _____

I can use coordinating conjunctions to create compound sentences

What does a coordinating conjunction do in a sentence?

Underline the conjunctions in the sentences below:

1. Trains were made to run using electricity so that they could travel further.
2. After years of using steam, trains became diesel and began to become more popular.
3. Many of the steam trains aren't in service but some still remain.

Choose the appropriate coordinating conjunction to finish the sentences below:

1. Electric trains were able to go into cities _____ they could travel underground.
2. Steam trains were very slow _____ lots of people still wanted to use them.

3. Bullet trains were developed in Japan _____ are not available in the UK.

Finish the sentences about trains using a co-ordinating conjunction:

1. Steam trains were very popular in the 1930s

2. In the 20th century, trains were used to travel to places like the seaside

3. At first, people didn't want to travel on the trains

Now have a go at writing your own sentences about trains, Remember to use a coordinating conjunction in each one and try to use a fronted adverbial in one as well.

